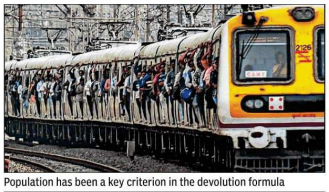
What is Finance Commission & what role does it perform?

Sidhartha@timesofindia.com

When finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman presents her ninth budget on Sunday, she will also table the report of the 16th Finance Commission, headed by economist Arvind Panagariya, along with the action taken report. She will incorporate the recommendations of the panel in her budget.



Population has been a key criterion in the devolution formula

■ What is a Finance Commission?

It is a constitutional body set up every five years to review the fiscal position of states and the Centre, and decide the formula for sharing taxes collected by the Centre, known as vertical devolution. It also recommends the formula for the share for each state based on parameters. "Over the years, tax devolved to states by the finance commissions has been about 80% to 90% of the total finance commission transfers while grants have constituted 10% to 20% of such transfers," according to a book released by the 15th Finance Commission (FC). While devolution has remained without conditions, grants in-aid come with conditions. Over the years, how much taxes are shared has changed.

The first FC recommended 55% of the net income tax proceeds to be shared along with 40% of excise on tobacco, matches and vegetable products. Till 1999-2000, states only received a share of income tax and excise. It changed from 2000, when after amendments to the Constitution, the 11th FC began with devolution of all taxes, barring those raised through cess and surcharge.

The FC also recommends transfers to the third tier of govt, or local bodies.

TOI Explains

■ How do the commissions finalise their award?

FC members travel to all states and get a first hand assessment of finances and challenges. They then devise the devolution formula based on several parameters. Over the years, population has been a key criteria along with a state. Besides, panels look at the income level and how the state compares with the national average, along with the fiscal situation of the state. The efforts taken by the state to manage its finances is also factored in.

The 16th FC has not been given specific terms of reference, giving it complete freedom to decide on issues.

■ What are the issues confronting the 16th FC?

How to deal with population is the biggest issue given that southern states have argued that they should not be penalised for better performance on this front.

In addition, opposition-ruled states have argued that the Centre is not giving a fair deal to states, especially after GST was introduced, and there are multiple cesses, whose proceeds are not shared with them.

On its part, several policymakers have argued that the states are walking away with a large share of revenue, leaving the Centre with limited resources, especially when it is supporting states on education, health and employment, which are not tasks assigned to it

India's ties with Venezuela have been cordial

PM Modi on Friday spoke to acting Venezuela President Delcy Eloína Rodríguez Gómez for the first time since the latter assumed the role of acting president, following a US military operation on Jan 3, in which President Nicolás Maduro was captured and taken to the US to face charges.

The Indian govt had responded to the development, calling it a matter of deep concern and asking all concerned to address issues peacefully. It did not, however, condemn the US action. In her new role, Rodríguez has publicly maintained that Maduro remained the "only president" of Venezuela and has condemned the US actions as "kidnapping".

Court acquits man in 2020 Del riots case

New Delhi: A Delhi court has acquitted a man accused of torching a senior secondary school in northeast Delhi's Brijpuri during the Feb 2020 riots, reports Koushiki Saha.

The court held that the prosecution's case suffered from serious infirmities, including an unexplained "delay in registering the FIR" and "inconsistent" testimony of the sole eyewitness, who happens to be a police constable.

Additional sessions judge Parveen Kumar Singh of Karkardooma court observed on Jan 28 that though the school was set ablaze on Feb 25, 2020, an FIR was registered only on March 5, without any explanation for the delay. He held that such a lapse assumed significance as the prosecution case rested entirely on a single witness, making it "highly unsafe" to sustain a conviction and entitling the accused the benefit of doubt. The case relates to the torching of Arun Modern Public Senior Secondary School, causing an estimated loss of Rs 1.25 crore.

No animal fat in Tirupati laddu ghee: CBI

Tirupati: The CBI chargesheet in the case of adulterated ghee being supplied to the famous Tirupati temple makes no mention of animal fats, reports Sandeep Raghavan.

The chargesheet, filed in a special court in Nellore on Jan 23, however, says lab tests of the ghee samples revealed that synthetic ghee was supplied to the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) for making laddu prasadam. It was not cow milk ghee at all, but ghee made from synthetic material blended with vegetable oils, it says. The chargesheet suggests presence of coconut oil and/or palm kernel oil in the adulterated ghee.
